ISLAND BALLROOM

Occupying an area of 1,469 square metres, the Island Ballroom can accommodate up to 1,000 people for cocktail receptions or banquets, and 1,400 people in a conference setting. Designed by internationally renowned Leese Robertson Freeman Designers, it is unique for its pillar-free construction that can also be segmented into individual sections for smaller events.

Expect state-of-the-art audio facilities and a new-age "smart lighting" system. Specially commissioned artwork, backlit marble walls and luxurious soft furnishings differentiate it from other function venues. The adjacent Island Foyer, with an area of 488 square metres, is ideal for hosting pre-dinner cocktails, coffee breaks and exhibitions. It also has a VIP holding room, making it suitable for state occasions. Having its own entrance means guests need not pass through the hotel lobby to access the Island Ballroom.

TOWER BALLROOM

Dating back to when Shangri-La Hotel, Singapore opened in 1971, the Tower Ballroom has set the benchmark for iconic events held at Shangri-La hotels around the world. It is pillar-free and covers an area of 934 square metres with a dramatic ceiling height of 5.8m. It can accommodate 680 people for banquets and 900 people for theatre-style conferences and conventions.

Also designed by Leese Robertson Freeman Designers, the Ballroom exudes luxurious elegance in the calm, neutral colours of beige, blue and silver. The chinoiserie-themed silk wall art is handmade by Fromental in the UK, depicting a scene of a garden that blends European artistic styles with Chinese influences. The Ballroom is equipped with the latest audio-visual equipment and screen displays. Sixty adjustable spotlights allow specific focus on different areas, and 12 coloured alcove lights enhance the ballroom's mood for each occasion.

GARDEN WING VENUES

The Garden Wing houses three function areas: Banyan Deck, Garden Terrace and Dutch Pavilion, each surrounded by lush gardens with outdoor decks.

BANYAN DECK

Nestled in the shade of mature trees, the Banyan Deck is ideal for hosting a cocktail reception under the stars, and garden-themed solemnisations and weddings.

Spanning over 80 square metres with an upper and lower deck, the entire Banyan Deck is made from Malaysian balau wood using a traditional construction style, which uses no nails or screws. Each plank is cut to shape and slotted in to fit perfectly like pieces of a jigsaw puzzle.

GARDEN TERRACE

Surrounded by tropical greenery, the Garden Terrace measures 322 square metres and is situated near the pool. It has its own kitchen and is capable of hosting corporate celebrations of up to 180 people, or a cocktail reception in the evening for a maximum of 200 guests.

DUTCH PAVILION

A heritage building dating from the 1920s, it was part of Singapore's first Dutch school. The Hollandse School opened in 1928 and the Dutch Pavilion used to serve as a hall for physical education, assembly and classes. At its peak in 1958, the Hollandse School had 221 students. In 1982, the land was sold to Shangri-La Hotel, Singapore after the school shifted to bigger premises.

The Dutch Pavilion underwent a S$2 million renovation in 2015, led by Leese Robertson Freeman Designers. Original structures such as the wall and distinctive gable roofs were retained. Interior walls and soft furnishings in a calming white, blue and silver palette were added. A new outdoor terrace fitted with an outdoor grill was installed to enhance the culinary experience for events held here.

With an area of 138.5 square metres and a ceiling height of 3.6m, the Dutch Pavilion can accommodate up to 100 guests in banquet-style, or host 120 guests for a cocktail reception. Fitted with glass windows and doors all around, it is filled with natural light in the day. In the evening, it is the perfect venue for al fresco cocktail receptions and dinners.

TOWER WING MEZZANINE

The newly-renovated Tower Wing has 15 event spaces on level 4. Designed by Bond Studio from Tokyo with wood and woven rattan accents, they exude a calm and soothing ambience.

Each room is named after indigenous flowers and feature foldable partitions to lend flexibility to any meeting requirement for 30 to 300 guests. The Orchid, Hibiscus and Peony rooms have natural lighting with floor-to-ceiling glass windows, while the Lotus room has its own foyer space with an ultra-short throw projection wall.

In the middle of the mezzanine is the lounge, an open and versatile space where guests can take find respite, have small breakout meetings, eat breakfast or enjoy cocktails.
